SWEDISH GENTLEMAN

Appears As a Witness for the Defense in the Peterson Trial.

CERTIFICATE OF CHARACTER.

It is Produced in Court, but Witness Bjork Was Unable to Satisfactorily Identify It.

The Peterson trial, now on in the circuit court, will be concluded tomorrow if the defense progresses as rapidly this afternoon as it did this morning. Seven witnesses were sworn by the defense this morning, including Expert Witness Dr. John Bell, who was called at 11:30 and remained on the stand until the noon recess. The other witnesses were George Slater, Charles M. Gillespie, Claud Hughes, Celia Gilbert, Joel Barnhart and E. E. Newshead.

Mr. Barnhart had often heard Mrs. Harris speak of Peterson as her adopted son. He believed that Miss Harris' treatment of Peterson was more of the nature of that adopted by a friend than a lover, and of Peterson, the witness said, he was a gentleman, honest and industrious. The cross examination developed that the witness had experienced some difficulty with Miss Harris' father over a bean deal.

Dr. John Bell said he had practiced his profession for 26 years and during that time had occasion to observe the causes of insanity and insane patients. Asked to distinguish between an act of insanity and act of passion the doctor said the difference was most noticeable after the act. A distinguishing difference was found in the condition that a crime incited by passion was followed by an attempt of the criminal to escape while an insane person after his crime usually exhibited contentment of mind. An insane criminal will linger about the scene of his crime and make no effort to escape, said the doctor. He will rarely attempt to avoid punishment or detection. He will sometimes talk about his crime and other times appear morose and quiet. The latter condition was explained by the theory that the cause for the deed had ended, and the excitement had passed away, and the criminal thinking he had done right and was not conscious of having committed a crime, by reason of his impaired mental condition.

The emotions, the doctor said, might acquire such prominence as to dominate the will and the mind. Such a condition might be acquired suddenly or gradually with increasing effect. The witness disagreed with such authors as declared sleeplessness a symptom of insanity. The sudden transition from bliss to misery sometimes produced insanity. A person could be insane on one subject and his faculty on others unimpaired. A blow on the head or mental troubles either might produce insanity. The fact that Peterson did not try to escape might be considered as evidence of insanity. Mr. Gore asked:

"Suppose the respondent from April until July had maintained to various persons that Miss Harris was keeping the company of other men and that he refused to be convinced by assurances of many persons that she wasn't, would not that indicate the possession of an insane delirium?"

"No, I think it would indicate jealousy," answered the witness, "unless extraordinary exertion and force had been used to remove the delusion."

The defense produced its first witness yesterday afternoon. Attorney Gore clearly placed before the jury the propositions his side expected to prove. He stated that it would be shown by witnesses that Peterson was laboring under intense mental excitement for some time preceding the tragedy and that when he committed the crime he was insane.

C. M. Bjork, a native of Sweden, was the first witness sworn by the defense. He is a painter living in this city, and the principal purpose for which he was

BOOK IS OUT.

Muskegon "Headlight Flashes" Leave the Printer's Hand.

"Headlight Flashes," for Muskegon, containing an exhaustive review of the industrial institutions of that city, is ready for delivery. The issue has left the presses of the A. B. Morse printing company and is a glowing tribute to the work the Morse company is capable of turning out. The editorial work, which was conducted by H. L. Houser, is also above criticism, and the fact that not a typographical error appears between the covers of the book is a fine recommendation of the painstaking efforts of the publishers. Over 25,000 copies of the book have been issued for Muskegon and 10,000 of these were contracted for by the city.

Mr. Houser is pushing forward the work on the Benton Harbor edition as fast as possible.

T. F. Anthony, Ex-Postmaster, of Promise City, Ind., says: "I bought one bottle of Dr. Fabry's Kidney and Bladder Pills and two boxes of it. It has done more good than any medicine I ever used. I am now well." Sold by G. M. Bell & Co., 108 Main street, Benton Harbor, Mich.

THE WEATHER.

Rain this afternoon. Fair in west portion tonight. Clearing and colder tomorrow.

SAFE OPENED.

Tunnel Company's Papers Found in Tact.

The safe of the Tunnel company was drilled open this afternoon and the books and papers were found in tact.

$268 IN NATIVE GOLD

The Klondike Exhibit at the Chrysanthemum Fair.

Anyone who has any taste for the beautiful cannot afford to remain away from the annual Chrysanthemum fair, which begins this evening, continuing Wednesday evening. The finest display of flowers ever seen in this city will be on exhibition. The admission is only 10 cents. Supper will be served this evening and Wednesday, and dinner on Wednesday, in the room below the hall, on the European plan and everyone who eats a 25 cent meal will be given a free admission ticket to the show.

Besides the flowers, the Klondike booth is especially interesting. It contains a bottle holding $53 worth of Alaska gold dust and another bottle containing gold nuggets to the value of $215, which Frank Phiscator, the gold king, kindly loaned the fair together with other curios from the Klondike.

MODIFIED.

Attorney Cady Scores a Triumph for Deam Today.

Attorney A. P. Cady succeeded today in his effort to have Judge Coolidge modify the order issued yesterday in the affairs of the Tunnel company.

Attorney Bridgman of the Davies faction drew up the order issued yesterday and presented it for the judge's signature. The order as given in open court was that the safe, books, maps, profiles, etc., be turned over to the "officers" of the company by Dr. Bell, the custodian. When the order was presented for signature, instead of the word "officers," which would have included Deam with the others, the names of Hamilton, Hollis and Davies were written which made the order read: "That possession be given of all books, maps, papers, records and other property of the company" to these three gentlemen. The judge inquired of the attorney who drew the order if these men were the officers of the company and he was assured they were.

Today Attorney Cady called the attention of the court to the fact that the order shut out H. D. Deam, the vice president and general manager from any participation in the possession of the books or property of the company. The court at once changed the order from "Hamilton, Hollis and Davies" to the "officers of the company."

The changed order gives Mr. Deam access to the books, which he ought to enjoy, and a right that he and his new safe combination should not have denied the other officers of the company.

A NEW BOAT.

Michigan City Wants Some Chicago Excursion Business.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Plans are now being made for a new boat which will be put on the Chicago-Michigan City run next season. It will be controlled by T. C. Dunbar, who has operated the steamer A. B. Taylor the last two seasons. The capacity of the boat will be 800 passengers and the cost $75,000.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 9.—What to vesselmen seems the announcement of the close of navigation is the statement that the steamer Ericsson and consort Holley, two of the big boats of the Bessemer Steamship company (Rockefeller's) fleet, are laying up at Lorain. The other boats of the fleet will be laid up as soon as they get around. This seems to mean but one thing, that the iron ore trade for the season is at an end.

Relief in Six Hours

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by G. M. Bell & Co., 108 Main street, Druggist, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"You think I am dead,"
The quick grass said,
Because I have parted with stem and blade,
But under the ground
I am safe and sound,
With the snow's thick blanket over me laid.
I'm all alive and ready to shoot
Should the spring of the year
Come dancing here,
But I pity the flower without branch or root."

"You think I am dead,"
A soft voice said,
Because not a branch or root I own.
I never have died,
But close I hide
In a plummy seed that the wind has sown.
Patient I wait through the long winter hours.
You will see me again.
I shall laugh at you then
Out of the eyes of a hundred flowers."

"MRS. RESCUE."

We were between the Azores and Madeira, bound for a port in the West Indies, in the American ship Ben Joyce, when a curious thing happened one morning about an hour before daylight. The wind had died away soon after midnight, and by 2 o'clock the sea was like a mill pond. The ship was swinging her head to every point of the compass, and with the exception of the lookout man the watch on deck were catching 40 winks of sleep. I was that lookout man. It is required on all vessels at sea that the man on the bows shall be as wide awake in a calm as when the craft is moving, and I was digging my eyes and fighting away sleep when a curious sound from over the bows caught my ear. It was a dark night, with not a star visible, and I could not see beyond the end of the jib boom. As I listened to the noises the only thing I could compare it to was the noses of sharks bumping against a small boat. It would have been ridiculous to call to the mate and give him any such explanation, but I finally called his attention to the curious noises and left the cause to his own perception.

"There's a raft or boat out there," he said after a moment, "and the noise may be made by oars. I'll burn a port fire."

The port fire lighted up the sea for 100 feet around, and the first thing we saw was a ship's boat within 40 feet of us on the port bow. In the bottom of the boat were two human figures and one of them a woman, and all around the boat the sea was alive with sharks. They were diving under the boat, running their noses against it and seeking to upset it, and had it been a shore boat they would doubtless have had it over. As soon as we caught sight of the boat the mate ran to call the captain. By the time the captain had arrived the boat had drifted right down against us, and one of the crew lowered himself into her and made fast the painter. Then I got down to assist him, and we passed up the bodies, the man first. We might just as well have dropped him into the sea, for he had been dead for 24 hours at least. As we picked up the woman, having not a doubt that she was also dead, she moved and uttered a groan and gave us a great fright. We had her on board after a couple of minutes, and the small boat, which was a captain's gig, new and without a name, was later on hoisted up.

Captain Clark was a single man 30 years old, and neither of his mates was a married man. They found the woman greatly exhausted through thirst and hunger, but with life enough to build hopes on, and they handled her so well that at the end of an hour it was reported on deck that she was asleep and would probably pull through. An hour after daybreak a breeze came, and we got on our course, and after a careful inspection of the body of the strange man it was given a sailor's burial. His pockets turned out nothing but some tobacco and a few bits of silver, but he was recognized by all as a sailor. He had the dress and general look, and the initials "S. E. W." had been pricked on his left arm in india ink. The boat was provided with mast, sail and oars; but, as I said, she was new, freshly painted and had no name on her. We didn't do much wondering over it, as we knew the woman would explain all when she regained her strength, but all were glad that it had fallen to our lot to pick up the boat. It may surprise you to learn how long that woman slept. At intervals the captain raised her head to administer soup or drink, but not to actually interrupt her sleep, and she did not open her eyes until 30 hours had passed. Then sleep had brought her fully back to life. It was 24 hours later before we heard her story or, to our unbounded amazement, learned that there was no story to tell. The woman could remember nothing of the past, not even her name.

If you have ever read Clark Russell, you will remember two such incidents in his books. You may have set them down as "sailors' yarns," but such things have happened on land a dozen times over. Every day for the last five years I have occupied a desk with a man who was practically drowned while bathing. After two hours' hard work they brought back the spark of life, but it was weeks before he left his bed. He began a new life at that point. All the previous 20 years were blotted out as if they had never been.

The woman awoke to find herself aboard a strange ship with strange men around her. She was a handsome, well formed woman, English in looks and speech and about 30 years of age. Her apparel was fine and costly, but she wore no jewelry and had neither a purse nor a cardcase. When asked how she came to be at sea, in the gig, what was her story, she said she knew nothing of it. She said she was a mystery and because the more it was talked over the sooner a solution might be found. After three or four days both cabin and forecastle came to the same general conclusion, which was this: The sailor must have been rowing the woman off to a ship or from a ship to shore at some of the islands. The gig had just been bought by a merchantman, and her name had not yet been painted on. The boat had been driven ahead of a gale for three or four days, and she had not a biscuit or a drop of water aboard. She must have sighted a score of ships in that great highway, but yet was not picked up. One would have thought the sailor would have borne up better than the woman, but he may not have been in good health.

That's the way we figured it out, and it looked reasonable enough, and of course the right thing to do was to leave the woman at Trinidad and report the case as widely as possible. Queerly enough, she fought and baffled this plan. Our captain was a good looking man, and, feeling that she owed him her life and doubtless being rather romantic by nature, what did she do but fall in love with him! That is only half the story. He fell head over heels in love with her. The position was most embarrassing for him, however. All of us were agreed that the woman was or had been a wife, though she had no finger ring to prove it. The chances were that she had a husband somewhere. And wouldn't the man search the whole world over to find and regain her? Captain Clark would not dare marry her under the circumstances. It was criminal even to love her. I think he saw things as an honorable man should, and yet he could not help loving her. When we reached Trinidad, he notified the English consul, placed the woman in the household of a friend and then sailed for the port of New York.

The story of our picking up the living and the dead was published far and wide. First and last it must have appeared in 500 newspapers, and sailors talked of it in a thousand ships. Three months passed before we returned to Trinidad, but no one had identified the woman. She had to have a name, and they had given her that of Mrs. Rescue. She was well and happy and glad to see her lover, and talk and argue as he would he could not convince her that any other man might have a claim on her. She simply repudiated the past. We got a charter for France, went to London in ballast and thence got a freight to Demerara. While the ship was discharging cargo Captain Clark went up to Trinidad. There was no news and no change. The publication of that story all over the world had not solved the mystery. No husband had come forward; no relatives had written. As our ship had been chartered to run between New York and Liverpool, Captain Clark decided to take Mrs. Rescue home with him, and this was done, and she was placed in the family of his sister on Long Island. I never saw her after the trip across, but I can tell you what followed.

When almost three years had elapsed and there was still no news, the two were married. The woman had not recovered one single point of memory. She was a stranger to herself. She had no country, no relatives, no name except by chance. After marriage the captain left the sea and went into the ship chandlery business in Brooklyn. One evening, two years after the wedding, the captain of an English tramp steamer just in called to ask for some information. He complained of not being well, and one thing leading to another, he finally related a tale of woe. Several years before, while his ship was at the Azores, his wife, who had been sent ashore in the morning, attempted to return about nightfall and just as a squall was coming up. The boat was upset and the occupants lost. They found neither the boat nor the bodies, but there wasn't the least doubt of the calamity. The loss of the wife so affected the husband that he was ill of brain fever for months, and he had never read a line of her rescue in midocean. There was the husband at last, and Captain Clark realized that he had rights before him. He had married the woman on chance, and chance had gone against him. They were alone in the office, and perhaps he thought of killing the man who had come to break up his happy home. It was only a step to the edge of the ship, and perhaps he thought of suicide as the best way out. The climax was a curious one, but in keeping. The strange captain, who had given his name as Burke, was looking at Captain Clark in a puzzled way and wondering why he should be so affected by the story when a yacht anchor swinging from a beam above his head parted its fastenings and fell upon him and crushed him to the floor, and though he did not die for two or three days he never spoke again.

Making It Clear.

To confuse a witness is generally an easy task, and lawyers know no easier way than to may a witness explain the meaning of his words, knowing that very few people can do so without getting excited. Occasionally a victim resents this nagging and answers in a spirited and unexpected manner. A lawyer was cross examining a young girl of rather haughty temper. She had testified that she had seen the defendant "shy" a book at the plaintiff, and the lawyer had seized on the word.

"Shy—shy a book? What do you mean by that? Will you explain to the court what the word 'shy' means?"

The girl leaned over the desk beneath the witness box, picked up a lawbook and threw it at the lawyer's head, who dodged just in time.

THIRD YEAR—NO. 652.

BENTON HARBOR, MICH., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1897.

NOT TO BE FOUND.

Pugilist Brown and Calderwood Have Disappeared from the City.

BROWN SELLS HIS BARBER SHOP

Prosecution of Witnesses of the Prize Fight Will Not Occur at Once.

Pugilists Sam Brown and Doc Calderwood, the principals in Sunday night's disgraceful prize fight, have disappeared from the city. Brown has sold his barber business to Will W. Davis and will probably never return and Calderwood, who was seen on the street last night at 6 o'clock, is not in evidence today. At least Officer Johnson, who has warrants for the arrest of both men, claims to be unable to locate Calderwood.

Only two warrants have thus far been issued and these are state warrants, as all the rest will be, and were issued on complaints against Brown and Calderwood, and allege the crime of prize fighting. The investigation by the police is being continued and before night it is expected that the name of every person who witnessed the brutal exhibition will be in the hands of the authorities. The officers collected 35 names yesterday and three more were obtained this morning. Warrants for the witnesses will not be issued until Prosecutor Valentine, who is occupied in the circuit court, is able to attend to the prosecution of the cases.

Mayor Bell was out of the city yesterday and knew nothing about the disgraceful fight until he returned last evening. He told THE NEWS that he would exert his energies in accomplishing the prosecution of every person connected with the outrage. He declared the affair to be an insult to the morals of the city and expressed great indignation over it.

The mayor said further that he intended to conduct an inquiry to ascertain if any of the members of the police department were blamable in the matter and if he was convinced they were he would promptly dismiss them from the force.

About 15 of the spectators of the fight visited the prosecuting attorney in his office last night, but what was developed at the conference is not given out. Those who witnessed the fight are very nervous over the turn affairs have taken.

A Miner's Sufferings.—Exposure induced colds, and colds developed into that commonest but most offensive of maladies—Catarrh. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder cleared the way to the pure gold of good health. Fred Lawrie, of Trail Creek, B. C., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh. I procured Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, 2 bottles cured me completely. I can highly recommend it." Sold by H. L. Bird and Geo. M. Bell & Co.—38.

Of Interest to Ladies.

Mrs. L. Hurlbut will on November 10 open rooms in Jones & Sonner block for hair dressing and all kinds of ladies' toilet work, with a full line of toilet articles and hair goods. Smith's puffs made to order. Phone 205 for work at rooms or house.

TABLES TURNED.

Vice President Deam Will Be Kept Busy Again.

While by the order of the court the officers of the Tunnel company are empowered to open the safe, a careful reading of the order, which was published in THE NEWS yesterday, shows that the order requiring Vice President Deam to open the safe and deliver over the combination to the officers of the company, is again in force. Mr. Deam is out of the city as before and no service can be had upon him. The officers of the company will proceed to open the safe in a day or two if Mr. Deam does not save them the trouble.

The Davies-Hollis faction are now on the warpath and they propose to sue Deam on some of his unpaid bills, get judgment, levy on his stock and sell it to satisfy the judgments. In regard to the mandamus against Hollis, as soon as the stock book is secured from the safe Hollis will check it up from his memorandum and make affidavit that he owns but half a share. In this game the Davies people have the advantage over Deam, as the former faction has control of the stock book and Mr. Deam will find it hard to date back any sale of stock, as such transfers must be reported to and recorded by the secretary.

Mr. Deam, however, is a good fighter and may break out with some unexpected new blow.

The public is getting tired of this everlasting muddle and will rejoice when active operations on the road are resumed.

ABOUT THE COUNTY.

Fair Plain.

Fair Plain, Nov. 9.—A small audience were entertained by a well rendered program Saturday evening at the first meeting of the literary society. New officers were elected. President, Tom Hagerman; vice president, Frank P. Kelly; secretary, Ellen Kaple; treasurer, May Clyburn. Program committee, Frank Vogle and Queenie Young.

George Race of Dowagiac, called upon some of Fair Plain friends Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. N. W. Wightman has moved to Chicago. Mr. Wightman has a situation as teacher in the windy city.

Nellie Knizely will spend several weeks in Chicago.

Next Saturday night a box social will be held at the school hall for the benefit of the school.

Stevensville.

Stevensville, Nov. 9.—Burglars entered the home of Walter Roberts in Stevensville last Sunday night but were frightened away before they secured any booty by Mr. Roberts and his wife returning from church. The thieves gained an entrance to the house by raising a window. After they were in the house they bolted the doors from the inside and Mr. Roberts was compelled to break open the door with the aid of an axe.

Frank Johnson, proprietor of the Hotel Johnson, went to St. Joseph yesterday on business.

Mrs. Charles Swan, better known in the theatrical world as Jessie Stevens, has been a guest at the Hotel Johnson for the past two weeks. She was called here from Chicago on account of the serious illness of her 8 months old son. She left yesterday for her parents' home in St. Joseph.

The elegant new residence of August Grams is now completed and will be occupied by Dr. S. Paulder. The work was done by Albert Grams and Fred Miller.

Sunday night while preaching was in progress in the church several boys and young men stood on the outside and yelled "Amen" and otherwise disturbed the meeting. It is expected some arrests will be made.

A Terrible Case of Dropsy Cured.

BENTON HARBOR, June 2, 1897.
This is to certify that I was sick with dropsy and had become so bad that I felt that I would soon pass away. I weighed 187 pounds. During the past three months I have improved so rapidly that I am confident I will soon regain my normal weight, and be a well woman. I will gladly tell all who wish to know where to go for treatment. Drs. B. S. & Co. are the ones that have cured me. Mrs. WILLIAM KNEIBUS.

SWEDISH GENTLEMAN

Appears As a Witness for the Defense in the Peterson Trial.

CERTIFICATE OF CHARACTER.

called was to identify a certificate of character, said by the witness to have been given to Peterson by a Swedish government official. Bjork was expected to translate the document which was written in Swedish. He made a very unsatisfactory attempt and another witness will be called who is a more successful interpreter. Bjork was unable to state intelligently who issued the certificate. He maintained that the officer who granted it was employed by the government whose title Bjork was ignorant of. The certificate bore the date of September 8, 1897, and by it was ascertained Peterson's exact age, a question on which there has been a conflict of testimony. The certificate gave 1853 as the date of his birth making him 44 years old. Bjork said the certificate was such as every countryman had to provide himself with before going abroad. As the witness translated it the document certified that Peterson had enjoyed a good character all his life until 1883 when he left Sweden. Asked to explain the fact of the certificate being dated September 8, 1897, the witness said that Peterson had probably lost his original certificate and that the one offered in evidence was a duplicate.

Bjork had known Peterson three years, he said, and regarding the subject of Miss Harris the witness considered Peterson a little "daffy." "He talked about the girl all the time," said Bjork. "He made me tired with his silly talk. The girl was always on his mind. I says 'look out for the girls. They fool you.' Yes, I thought he was crazy sometimes the way he acted over the girl. He got worse all the time. It seemed, and at last I didn't want to see him on account of his silly ways and because he wanted to talk about nothing else but the girl."

The cross-examination by Prosecutor Valentine went little further than to ascertain if Bjork had been coached on the story he told on direct examination. Bjork said he had talked with Mr. Gore but had not been told what to say.

W. S. Hammond, who followed Bjork on the stand, said he had lived in the Gilbert family when Peterson boarded there, and that he slept in the same room with Peterson. He maintained that Peterson talked about little else than his love affairs with Miss Harris, and when the other boarders "plagued" him about the girl, he became frustrated and confused. As time wore on and the fourth of July approached, Peterson seemed to grow worse and complained almost continually of his head and heart. He was restless and his nights were spent in wakefulness. Peterson always "stuck up" for the girl, the witness said, and would not entertain the thought of her jilting him. He, however, was worried over the fact of not being able to get her to fix the date of their marriage. "I told him," said the witness, "that if he got her to do that it would decide whether she loved him." Witness said he was not surprised when he heard of Peterson having shot Miss Harris. He considered that the fellow was insane at the time.

Prosecutor Valentine spent only a moment in cross-questioning the witness.

Miss Harris, the cause of Peterson's trouble, had another scare yesterday afternoon. She was standing by the drinking fountain in the corridor when Deputy Sheriff Tennant approached with Peterson, who had asked that a drink of water be procured for him. The moment Miss Harris' eyes fell upon Peterson she gave utterance to a vigorous scream. Her mother quickly quieted her and a moment after screaming her attitude changed and she began to laugh like a happy school girl.

LIKE A SNAKE FIGHT.

Senator Foraker Will Look on the Ohio Battle.

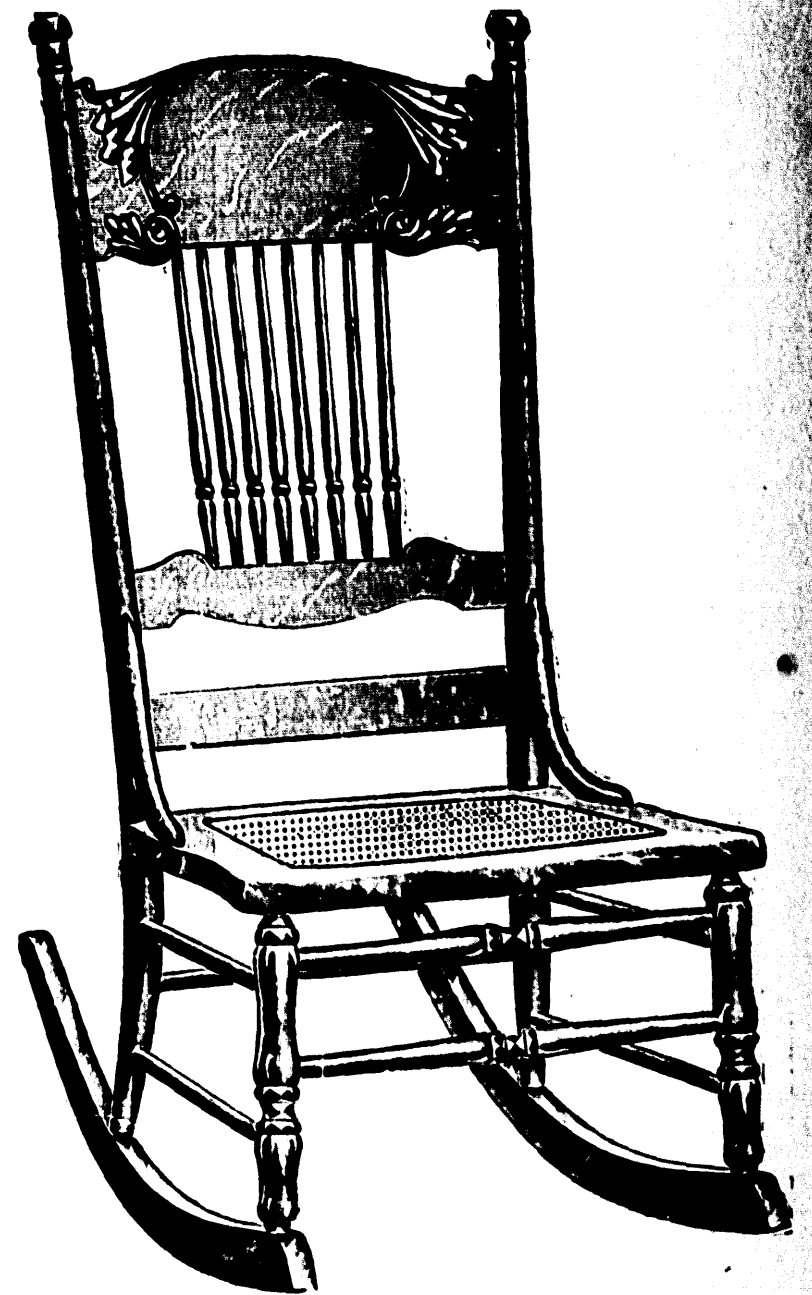

Cincinnati, Nov. 9.—Senator Foraker left for Washington last night. In an interview yesterday he said: "The campaign of 1897 ended with me last Tuesday. So long as we were fighting the common enemy I gave all my time and strength to the cause. I supposed the republican legislature meant the election of Senator Hanna and, notwithstanding what I see in the newspapers, I still think so."

"But if there should be a contest among the republicans, I will not have anything to do with it unless something unforeseen occurs to change my mind."

TWIN CITY TELEPHONE 172.

TUESDAY, NOV. 9, 1897.

THE police force would not be called out if the board of directors of the tunnel road would get together.

It cost Judge Van Wyck $156.75 to be elected mayor of Greater New York. Success in this case was cheaper than defeat. The same campaign cost Henry George his life, Seth Low his ambition and Boss Platt his power.

THE great men of New York have given up their fight on Jonah and the whale and now they have declared war on Santa Claus. They make the wonderful and startling statement that no such character ever existed.

THE horse show at Chicago lost the managers a considerable amount of money. It could not be expected otherwise. The horse is a backnumber, having been superceded by the America, the Topic and the Orien.

FOR the amount of money involved or the value of property at stake no institution ever gave Judge Coolidge as much bother as the Benton Harbor Electric railway and transit company. The court would not have mourned if the entire road had been sunk out of sight in the historic St. Joseph Valley sink hole No. 3.

LAST Sunday Rev. Adam Clark, the Methodist preacher at Holland, preached a pointed sermon against the sin of having the postoffice open on Sunday and sorrowfully confessed that even church members went after their mail on Sunday. At the close of the sermon a petition was circulated and liberally signed asking the government to keep the office closed. It appears that Rev. Mr. Clark is straining at a goat but without any further knowledge of the good man it is not at all certain that he is swallowing any camels.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure.

The legend of the great toe is the great toe community in climbing. Several years ago, while spending some time at one of the famous resorts in Jamaica, I had an opportunity to observe the skill with which the black women, who do a great part of the menial labor, carried stone, mortar and other building materials on their heads to the top of a five story tower in a part of the hotel not then finished.

Much of the unerring accuracy with which they (women and girls) chased each other up and down the long ladders, with heavy loads skillfully poised on their woolly pates, was due to the firmness with which they grasped each rung of the ladders with the great toe. They did not place the ball or the hollow of the foot on the rung, but the groove at the juncture of the great toe with the body of the foot, and they held fast by making the back of the other toes afford the other gripping surface. In much the same way the Abyssinian native cavalry grasp the stirrup. And I have seen a one armed Santo Domingan black, astride the rear ox in a wheel yoke, guiding a lead mule with a rein held between his great and second toes, while his only arm was devoted to cracking his teamster's whip.—Overland Monthly.

CONTRACTOR Wescott resumed work on the Eastman Springs street railway this morning, getting the track in condition to adjust the crossings of the Big Four and Milwaukee, Benton Harbor & Columbus railways, on East
Main street, when they arrive.

AT the A. M. E. church tonight Rev.
W. H. H. Buttler, presiding elder of the Michigan annual conference of that church, will deliver a lecture on the schools and colleges owned and supported by the church, beginning at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served after the lecture. All are welcome.

THERE is a movement on foot toward the building of a cycle path along Pipestone street. It is figured that if every wheelman who uses Pipestone street would donate 50 cents such a path could be built. The opinion of wheelmen on this subject is desired.
The Orlen Cycle company is pushing the project.

FOOTBALL.

Chicago Alderman Wants the Game
Outlawed.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Alderman Nathan M. Plotke, known to Chicago as the author of the theatre-bat ordinance, is opposed to the chrysanthemum style of hair affected by football players. He also is an energetic antagonist of mass plays, fair or false tackles, bucking tactics, tandem formations and drop kicks, and because of this wants football ruled out in Chicago. He placed himself in line with the legislature of the state of Georgia and yesterday had the following ordinance struck off by the city clerk's typewriter.

"Section 1. It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person or persons to assemble for the purpose of witnessing or playing, taking part or engaging in the game known as football anywhere within the corporate limits of the city of Chicago.

"Section 2. Any person or persons who shall violate any of the provisions of section 1 of this act shall be punished by a fine of not less than five ($5.00) dollars or more than fifty ($50.00)
dollars for each offense."

The Mystery of Beau Fielding.

The most extraordinary instance, perhaps, of one moving in the best society of his time, always at a great expense, and with no apparent means of livelihood, was Beau Fielding. His death, too, by the hand of one fated to play an important part in the affairs of Europe made his case still more remarkable.
Beau Fielding was a young man of fashion in the reign of William III. His house was sumptuously furnished, his hunters, hawks and racers were of great value, and "he kept a table of princely hospitality." He had no ostensible source of income. All that was known of him was that he was the fifth son of Thomas Wilson, an impoverished gentleman of Leicestershire. Evelyn describes him as a very young man, "civil and good natured, but of no great force of character," and "very sober and of good fame." All attempts to discover his secret were vain. "In his most careless hours of amusement he kept a strict guard over his tongue and left scandal to conjecture what it pleased."

He redeemed his father's estate and portioned off his sisters and when remonstrated with on his extravagance replied that however long his life should last he would always have enough to live in the same way. Some said it was he who had robbed the Holland mail, for which another man had suffered,
others that he depended upon the gambling table, though he never played for large sums. He was the enigma of social life till his career was cut short by a duel. His adversary was, at that time, a young man about town like himself, John Law, who afterward became the founder of the famous Mississippi scheme by which half of France was ruined. When the mysterious Beau died, he left only a few pounds behind him and not a scrap of evidence to enlighten public curiosity.—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Phenomenon That Doesn't Exist.

Every one has observed the apparently enlarged diameter of the full moon when seen just after it has risen. The orb is seemingly much larger than when at a higher elevation. The generally received explanation is that, in some unaccountable way, the lower atmosphere has a magnifying effect. And yet if Luna is viewed through a tube whose opening just takes in the moon when near the horizon, and afterward when on the meridian, it will be seen that there is no difference whatever. It is altogether likely that the apparent enlargement is produced by the effect of unconscious cerebration, that we thus compare the orb's size with that of the terrestrial objects nearly on a line with it on the horizon or hilltops, which are known to be of large dimensions, such as houses or lofty trees, whose scale of angular projection is reduced in receding into the distance more than is usually supposed. As a matter of fact, the delusion is quite the reverse of what we might expect, for when the moon is above us it is about 4,000 miles nearer the observer than when it is rising or setting, for in the latter cases we are looking at it over half the earth's diameter in addition to the distance from the surface turned toward it.—New York Times.

He Was Not In It.

A man who was offering for sale a small Newfoundland puppy on Chestnut street quite unintentionally afforded a good deal of amusement to the promenaders. Of course he was pleased at the notice which he attracted, but he couldn't see what there was so funny about either himself or his dog. He had bought one of those ready made handbills, such as are pasted upon houses, reading: "For Sale. Inquire Within."
With an ordinary lead pencil he had crossed off the word "within," and, making a period after "inquire," tied it around the puppy's body. But the lines of erasure were so faint that ten feet away the handbill appeared in its original form. A small boy who saw the joke approached the man and asked,
"Say, mister, did de growler swallow his owner?" "No. Don't git gay, Johnny," said the man. "Well, den, who do youse ask fur w'en youse gits inside?"
queried the small boy. Then the man saw the point and tore off the lower half of the placard, so that it read simply, "For Sale."—Philadelphia Record.

Fair Collateral.

A soldier in the guards came to me in Queen's square to swear to his having lost his duplicate. I looked at the affavit to see if it were military accoutrements, etc., that he had pawned, when to my surprise I found that he had pawned a £2 bank note for 10s. 6d. On asking an explanation of this odd circumstance, he said he received the £2
note and was resolved to pass a jolly evening, but not to spend more than a half guinea, and to insure this he pawned the note for that sum and destroyed the duplicate afterward that he might not be able to raise money on it in case his resolution should give way while he was drinking with his companions.—Cornhill Magazine.

AN ALDERMAN KILLED

Henry Ludolph Slain by a Northwestern Railway Train at a Chicago Crossing.

TRIED TO CROSS THE TRACKS

And Did Not See the Approach of the Fast Running Express Train.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Henry Ludolph, democratic alderman for the sixteenth ward, was killed by a Chicago and Northwestern passenger train at 6:30 o'clock last evening on the Clybourn place crossing. Struck by the pilot of the locomotive, his body was cast on the rails to be crushed and mangled frightfully.

On an adjacent track the north-bound Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul express train had just sped by and Alderman Ludolph, waiting for a chance to walk across, stepped from behind its last car and walked twenty feet directly in front of the incoming Northwestern passenger train No. 110.

Shrill blasts of the whistle, the warning cries of bystanders and the frantic alarm of the flagman were unavailing to save the ill-fated man. Engineer Maxwell's hand tremblingly reversed the lever and set the air brakes, but Alderman Ludolph had gone down to death and the cars had dragged him 150 feet along the wet and slippery rails before the engine came to a standstill.

The perilous character of the Clybourn place crossing and the circumstance that two swift trains were passing each other were deemed reasons by the police to place the catastrophe in the record of accidents. But last night William Windland, the flagman, described the fatality as having been caused by either remarkable heedlessness on the part of Alderman Ludolph or a successful attempt at self-destruction. The flagman's testimony was the only account the police of the West North avenue station could obtain. At the dark and lonely crossing he was the only one outside of Engineer Maxwell who could be found to claim having witnessed the awful death.

Alderman Ludolph has left his undertaking rooms, 807 Milwaukee avenue, a few hours previously to collect some rent. He had nearly finished his rounds and was on his way to the house of a friend near Elston avenue, whence he intended to take a car to the meeting of the council.

The council was in session when the news of his death reached the city hall and that body adjourned out of honor to their dead member.

MORE GOLD.

Montana Trying to Overtake the Klondike Stories.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 9.—A great gold strike has been made on Upper Sage creek. A ledge extending for many miles, and the quartz running $100 to the ton, has been discovered and the people in that part of the state are wild with excitement.

The little town of Utica has been almost deserted by the male inhabitants, who have staked out the whole surrounding country.

It is reported that from any part of the great ledge rock can be broken that runs $100 and more to the ton. Some of the excited prospectors have gone to work with plows and scrapers to uncover the vein.

Another report of the discovery of a rich placer deposit was brought today from Elk City, Ida., where Judge Lindsay and other Butte parties have been interested in mining. A $17,000 clean-up has just been made and the deposits are said to be richer than anything yet discovered in that state.

IDAHO WRECK.

The Boat Had Outlived Its Usefulness.

Marine disasters on the great lakes usually occur in the spring and fall. Passenger traffic is practically suspended at the close of the lake season, and freight traffic is rapidly reverting into the hands of the railroads. Many of the vessels are already tied up, so that the liability of collision is much lessened. These facts indicate that it is the heavy and long continued gales which work most harm to the lake vessels. The wreck of the Idaho, off Long Point in Lake Erie, says the Detroit News, is the most serious disaster of the season of 1897 up to date, as 19 persons perished and the ship and cargo were lost through an error in judgment on the part of the captain. It was another case of an old vessel, which might have been a safe enough craft for ordinary weather, braving the storm when she should have laid up for better weather. Two men out of a crew of 21 were saved, after eight hours of exposure to the sweep of a heavy sea and the chill of November weather, through the persistent humanity of the crew of the Mariposa.

The Idaho was one of the old type of wooden boats built during the early '60s. Her hull was stiffened by strong arches, after the practice of that day, and the vessels of her type proved staunch and strong, as many of them are still in use on the lakes. Apparently she gave little warning of her approaching end, but went to destruction after the fashion of the "wonderful one-hoss shay." Her hull had been sodden in fresh water for 34 years, and the timbers, while they may have been sound enough, had probably lost much of their elasticity. As she was laboring heavily in the heavy weather her seams probably opened, and when her commander would have put about to run for shelter her fires were quenched by a heavy sea which came aboard.

The season of 1897 has been a discouraging one for the owners of vessels, so many of them were compelled to tie up during the best part of the summer, when navigation should have been at its best. The advent of the big steel 400-footers, with their increased carrying capacity, greater engine power and additional conveniences for rapid handling of freights, has handicapped the older and slower craft, and it is but natural that the owners of the latter should take some chances in attempting to make their craft pay for their keeping. It is patent, however, that the perils of lake navigation are braved at considerable risk by the weaker sisters among the lake craft, and that their owners are a little late sometimes in recognizing the situation.

CUT HIS THROAT.

Michigan Murderer Kills Himself in La Porte.

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 9.—Charles Pinkerton, under sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of his nephew and son-in-law, Charles Pinkerton, jr., of Fulton, cut his throat in his cell in the county jail Sunday afternoon. Death was almost instantaneous. The deed was done with a pocket-knife.

Pinkerton, when arrested, declared that he would not go to the penitentiary. He first cut his throat with the edge of a tin cup, following that attempt with a steel shank taken from his shoe during the progress of his first trial. His first trial terminated in a disagreement of the jury, and he was remanded to jail for his second trial, which resulted in his conviction.

Mrs. Pinkerton was an inmate of the same cell with her husband, this precaution being taken to prevent the doomed man from carrying his threat to suicide into execution. It is thought that the wife, whose devotion to her husband furnished a chapter of pathos to his trial, furnished Pinkerton the knife with which he took his life.

WHAT THE "HOT TIME" COST.

Official Statement of Receipts and Disbursements for the Carnival.

Grand Rapids, Nov. 9.—The official statement of receipts and disbursements for the Carnival of Fun is not yet completed, but it will show approximately that $7,000 was raised for the "hot time" and that of this $5,800 was spent leaving $1,200 on hand as a nucleus for next year's hot time. The largest single item of expense was for music, costing $1,200, and nearly as much was spent in advertising.

MICHIGAN WHEAT CROP.

Secretary of State Says the Outlook is Below the Average.

Lansing, Nov. 9.—Secretary of State Gardner reports that the average condition of wheat Nov. 1 was 82, comparison being with vitality and growth of average years. The condition in the southern counties, where 85 per cent of the crop is grown, is 13 per cent lower than one year ago.

On fields favorably situated it is looking well, but a large proportion of the fields are more than ordinarily spotted. Heavy soaking rains are yet needed to place the ground in usually wet condition at the opening of winter. The estimates indicate that the area seeded to wheat this fall is 6 per cent greater than sowed in the fall of 1896.

The average yield of corn per acre in the state is estimated at sixty-one bushels of ears. The area of clover seed harvested is larger than in any late year and the estimated average yield higher than ever before reported. The yield in the state is estimated at 1.92 bushels an acre. Potatoes are estimated to yield in the state 64 per cent of an average crop.

Holland Boats Will Run Late.

Holland, Nov. 9.—The steamer So City according to Captain Pardee, will this year continue to run late into December. Usually the route is abandoned in November, but the big increase in business this year will compel the boat to run at a much later date. Every year the Holland-Chicago line has increased its business and the season of '97 has far exceeded all previous records.

On the application of Governor Pinch, made to the Wayne circuit court Judge Hosmer has issued an order commanding the Michigan Central and Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway companies to show cause within a week why they should not sell 1,000 mile tickets, good for the purchaser and his family, for $20, as provided for by an act passed by the Michigan legislature. When the governor recently tried to purchase such books from the companies named, they said they had none and refused the proffered amount of $20.

An electric railroad is to be built from Lansing to St. Johns. St. Johns has long been wishing for another railroad.

A wee bit of humanity is causing a great stir in Hillsdale county. A short time ago, S. B. Wyatt and wife left their 15-month-old babe with Mrs. Wyatt's brother, Wm. Sola, on account of Mr. Wyatt's ill-health. The parents decided to move from Indiana to Moscow, and went after the babe. But Sola says: "No, the babe shall not go until its elongated milk bill is settled." A writ of habeas corpus has been issued.

The season as a whole, says the Bay City Tribune, has not been profitable to the owners of boats, but they have made the most of it, and will pocket their losses, with the hope that next season will be better. There has been more doing in the lumber carrying trade, but the output by water has been much less. The railroads are each year entering more into competition with boats, and slowly but surely driving the latter to seek other lines of freight.

Evolution of the Educational Ideal.

Let us place ourselves apart from the tumult which rages on both sides, and, closing our ears, question ourselves whether a new educational ideal may be evolved from this strife of contending factions and what the general character of this ideal would be. If we assume that the three features which I have mentioned may be combined, we should have a popular, realistic, individualistic ideal of education—popular, not exclusive or aristocratic in the narrower sense of the word; national, not foreign or international, but rather the result of an evolution from the national life itself; realistic, characterized by strength and action and not by mere thought and aesthetic sentiment; individualistic—i. e., aiming at the development of the individual and not at the establishment of dull uniformity; not democratic, therefore, in the sense of a general reduction to a dead level, but rather aristocratic, in the sense of an individual, not a class, aristocracy.

It would be presumptuous at the present day to state what the concrete form of such an educational ideal would be. I wish to say, however, that the society corresponding to the above ideal would be that of an aristocracy of mind. Is this the type toward which we are tending? Is the aristocracy of birth and wealth to be supplanted by the aristocracy of personal worth and merit? This has been the philosopher's dream from the day of Plato's "Republic" to the present hour. It is the tendency of nature. It would be the aristocracy of nature to have every individual stand independently upon his own personal merit and not upon the achievements of his father.—Professor Paulsen in Forum.

THE ELLS CASE.

Great Interest Manifested in Further Tests Being Made.

SAGINAW, Nov. 9.—Considerable interest is manifested here over the case of young Ellis, who lives at 221 South Sixth street, this city. It is generally known that our physicians had given him up to die of Bright's disease, and ceased to prescribe for him.

When his death was hourly expected his father happened to notice something in one of the papers about Dodd's Kidney Pills having cured Bright's disease. It struck him that never before, so far as he knew, had it been claimed for any remedy that by its use Bright's disease could be cured. With the slender hope that this remedy might do so he decided to try it.

It now transpires that a positive cure has been effected; young Ellis is as well today as he ever was in his life, and the credit for the cure is justly given to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

So wonderful are the claims made for Dodd's Kidney Pills, and so marvelous are their cures that our best physicians, including Dr. Lewis, have put their supposedly incurable patients under a course of treatment with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and the results are looked forward to with interest.

The fact that they positively cured young Ellis of Bright's disease is so convincing that Dodd's Kidney Pills are being used by our citizens in a great many other cases of Bright's disease, as well as in numerous cases of diabetes, rheumatism, dropsy, heart trouble, etc., which the manufacturers of these pills claim are also diseases of the kidneys, and equally curable by their wonderful remedy.

TO THE PUBLIC.

As a stranger soliciting a share of your patronage it is but just to you and to myself that I make some mention of my fitness for the work I would undertake. I come of a medical family, my father, brother and many relatives being physicians. I have attended and hold credentials from leading homoeopathic and allopathic medical colleges. For eighteen years I have successfully conducted a large practice. I have held high office in State and National medical societies, and received honorary professional recognition from abroad. I have had considerable hospital experience, am something of a medical writer and author, and have been professor in reputable medical colleges.

These frank statements can be easily verified. If they commend me to your confidence it will give me pleasure to professionally advise and assist healthward all who need and desire my services.

I am prepared to and will practice all branches of medicine and surgery, but because of special research, experience and success in this direction, greatly prefer and particularly invite those suffering from obscure, complicated, delicate, and all chronic or lingering diseases to consult me. Obstinate cases that others have failed to cure are solicited.

My office is at 112 East Main street, one door east of the postoffice, Benton Harbor. Respectfully, C. EDSON COVEY, M. D. 26619
